Thousands of Persons Are Reported Killed In the Explosion of Munition Dump at Salonika

PRESBYTERY WILL MEET NEXT FALL IN COPELAND NEAR ATHENS; ADJOURNS

Program Shortened and Business of Convention Concluded Last Night

NAME COMMISSIONERS TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Rev. L. F. Goodwin And Horace Layman, Are Elected To The Office

The Huntsville Presbytery, which has been in session at the Westside Presbyterian church since Tuesday evening, adjourned last night to meet in the fall at Copeland Presbyterian church located eight miles east of Athens. As the official program indicated it was the intention originally to continue the sessions until noon Thursday, but for one reason and another, it was thought best Wednesday morning to abbreviate the speeches and reports so as to enable the ministers and lay delegates to leave for their homes last night and early this morning.

Commissioners Named

May 19th, the General Assembly of the U. S. A. Presbyterian church meets at Des Moines, Iowa, and two commissioners, with alternates were elected to represent the Huntsville Presbytery in that assembly the highest executive body of the church.

Those distinct honorees came to Rev. Dr. L. F. Goodwin, pastor of the Westminister Presbyterian church, as the ministerial delegate, and to Horace Layman of Maysville, a brother of C. E. Layman of Albany, as the lay delegate. The alternates are Rev. M. M. Crow of Haleyville and formerly pastor of the Westside church, and Charles T. Polk, of the Columbia Avenue church of Sheffield.

Yesterday afternoon's session was a busy one, and was confined to addresses and reports dealing with the many undertakings of the Presbytery in the last six months. Reports showed that well sustained efforts had been put forth, and large results attained. One of the most active workers of the conference was Rev. Herman L. Turner who until some years ago resided in the Twin Cities.

Rev. Turner is pastor of the Columbia Avenue Presbyterian church of Sheffield, an active leader in the New Era Movement, and is Stated Clerk of the Huntsville Presbytery, having succeeded the Rev. Dr. L. F. Wear, who now serves a large church in Paris, Texas. Rev. Turner was scheduled to speak last night on the subject: "The New Era Movement in the Huntsville Presbytery," of which he is the active chairman, but instead spoke yesterday afternoon, confining himself largely to a statistical report on the tasks accomplished since last Presbytery.

Presbyterians Have a Vision.

In the course of the reports and discussions yesterday it developed that definite plans are on foot among both local, state and national bodies of Presbyterians, looking to larger fields of usefulness in this valley when the river developments at Muscle Shoals are made. It was shown that the Moderator of the National General Assembly had paid a visit to this section, and as one result of his visit, the Muscle Shoals district will receive considerable attention at the Des Moines Assembly in May. The Moderator has requested data concerning the Columbia Avenue church in Sheffield since his visit to its Pastor, Rev. Turner, and proposes to present stereotypical views of this church, and surrounding country at the General Assembly.

Featured by Strong Addresses.

Wednesday morning addresses were made by Rev. L. E. Brubaker of Birmingham, Rev. Dr. J. W. Caldwell of Gadsden, chairman of the Board of Church Extension. Rev. M. M. Crow, chairman of the Church Building Committee; Rev. F. A. Peake, in behalf of the American Bible Society committee.

CIRCUS PEOPLE REAL FOLKS

Reporter Discovers Press Agents Have Told Only Half About Sawdust Life

By Ben Bloodworth.

What lies behind the pink lemonade and the sizzle of steaming hot dogs and the barking adjectives of the sideshow ballyhoo. What lies behind the crack of the ringmaster's whip and the thud of performing horses under the mainpot? What, in fact, lies behind that part of the circus generally exposed to the public view?

The desire for avulsion of these questions which perplexed me, and perhaps you, led me to seek a "tour de luxe" of the Gollmar circus yesterday afternoon.

The mechanical side of the circus industry generally has been shown to the world in flattering sentences concocted by the press agent's art. Our eyes have been tired and our minds choked with a deluge of information about the ability of circus folk to unload and build a tented town in ten seconds more or less. The mechanical ability of these circus people has not been exaggerated, perhaps, but in the course of time we have come to accept the collective circus as being a marvel in the business of saving time and space.

Familiarity has bred contempt, as the early wisecracks said it would. There is nothing left in a circus story to tell of the mechanical side of their affairs. It has all been said before.

The press agents have told us of the rapidity with which the cook tents are erected, of the enormous amount of beef and bread consumed therein. They have told us of the fare, its preparation and its cost. But why haven't they told us the perfectly human story of how it is inspected every day by the steward, in order that circus people may eat as cleanly as you and I?

The press agents have told us of the wonderful professional ability of the Brown family, the Smith family, the Jones family and dozens of other families, half families and individuals. But why haven't they told us how the Browns, the Jones and the Smiths and all the other varied assortment of circus folk, sans home and hearth, still manage to keep alive their identity, retain their family ties and remain the Brown family, the Smith family, the Jones family, despite the fact that they may be on the road 33 weeks of the year, living part of the time from the two layers of a make-up a trunk and the remainder of the time in a railroad berth?

Perhaps somewhere, in some of your no doubt extensive reading of circus literature, you may have run across these things. But I haven't. They have never told me the story of Milligan, the clown.

Dumpy, funny, generous, wise little Milligan. When he passed me at the door of the dressing tent yesterday humorously costumed to represent an old lady, he almost looked the part to me. His eyes gleamed with a kind of tolerant benevolence you find in your own mother or your dearest aunt. Milligan was playing the part of a fool, a clown, playing to catch the ready, slapstick, sense of humor of the American public. But what thoughts lie under the eccentric caps he wears? The press agents never told me. Milligan returned from the mainpot and "made up" again. This time he carried a little banner "Vote Dry—Drink Wet." As he passed me on the return through the dressing tent curtain, he stopped and said: "That's what made the nation dry." Be your prohibition sentiments what they may, you must admit that Milligan conceals something of a philosopher's brain under a fool's cap.

The press agents never told me of De Mott, Mr. and Mrs. De Mott. They have filled me full of stories of professional jealousy, but they never have told me that De Mott might say, as he did say soon after he had introduced me to his wife: "Boy, I wish you were in there to see her ride."

They never told me that Mrs. De Mott might be out in the "pad room" at the moment in order that she could put the finishing touches on her husband's ring attire and to furnish him with a much needed pin.

They never told me of Berry, the equestrian-director, the overlord of everything "back stage". Berry, the genial fellow who is responsible directly to the management for every act behind that curtain which draws the distinction between an "act that's on" and on that's off."

I never knew there was a "Berry" with every circus, but there is. If they had told me of him, possibly they would have pictured him as a gigantic individual in white duck trousers, with a voice that might be heard a mile, a vocabulary well stocked with choice profanity, a crackling whip in his hand, the profanity to use on human beasts of burden and the whip for use on the loiterer species of the animal kingdom to remind them of their "cue" and to keep them in line for their entrances.

They never told me that Berry would stick a neatly typewritten program of the day's entertainment on the flap of the men's dressing room. That every performer would consult it, without consulting Berry. I never would have known, had I not seen, that Berry would issue one lone command during the time I saw him in action in the dressing tent.

Shortly before the band began the musical number which ushered in the opening "spec," which is circus abbreviation for spectacle, Berry walked near to the canvas wall which separates the men's dressing tent from the women's and spoke. "Now all you folks (it was a clear, distinct voice, not overbearing in the least, but a voice you immediately believed was meant to be obeyed) . . . I want every one of you to sing in that Skeik number

SWEEPING INQUIRY OF COAL INDUSTRY BY CONGRESS, FOR ENDING STRIKE, ON

Revitalized Investigation By House Labor Committee Has Many Aims

QUESTION OF LEGALITY OF INFORMATION UP

Committeemen Would Put All Phases of Industry Before Public

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A new, sweeping and searching inquiry into the coal industry was begun earnestly today by the house labor committee. The investigation revitalized after weeks of disclosures of conflicting reasons for the present strike aims:

1. To open up and centralize the storehouse of information of the industry's troubles now held by several governmental agencies whose functions do not co-ordinate.

2. To create, through congressional action, a new federal agency to find what is wrong with the industry and administer a permanent remedy.

3. To make all phases of the coal business open to the public. The inquiry, according to Chairman Nolan, not only proposes a searching investigation into the reasons why present governmental agencies have been unable to find a solution for controversies between operators and miners, but also a probe of the action of federal Judge Charles Orr, of Pittsburgh, in denying citizenship to striking miners.

Representatives of the federal trade commission and internal revenue bureau testified before the committee today. Bureau witnesses were asked to disclose profits of operators. This question of legality of making public this information arose this afternoon.

WEATHER

FOR ALABAMA: Fair tonight and Friday; slowly rising temperature.

Do You Know

That city which is particular in getting lots of publicity of the right sort always gets business or the right sort.

The proper kind, in the proper amounts, of advertising always is conducive to a better, bigger growth of a city thus advertised.

The proper kind of advertising a city should have is no hap-hazard method; it is as much of a business as buying and selling.

Trades people will go many miles out of their way to get to a real live place to sell their produce and do their buying.

Property in a city increases in proportion as the wide-awakeness of its citizens indicate. This is expressed in advertising the advantages to the outside world.

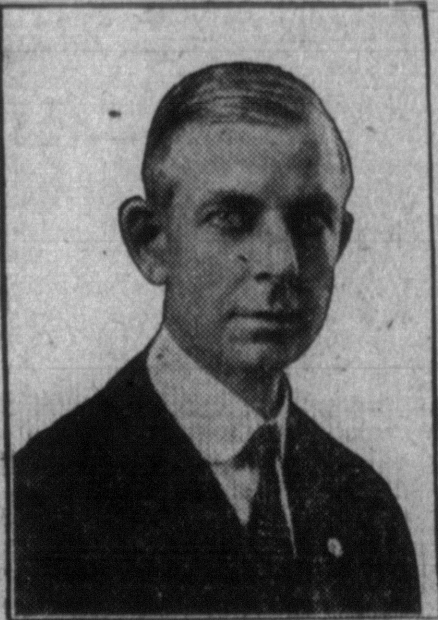

The people from neighboring towns and cities will come for miles to the place where every indication is that there is something worth while going after.

That city which is content with what it holds and can offer the public and is not concerned about something better, is on the sliding scale.

That city which is content with any other time than NOW to advertise its advantages to the public, is laboring under a wrong impression.

That city which depends on people to come and trade with them without a pressing invitation, hardly ever know how much real business they lose during the run of a twelve-month period.

Dairy Cow Will Be Subject of Mobley's Talk

H. S. MOBLEY

The dairy cow and her importance to the financial success of southern farmers will be the subject of H. S. Mobley who is scheduled to deliver an address here on May 2. He will speak in Cullman May 1 and efforts were being made today to get him to address Morgan county citizens the following day.

Mr. Mobley was national chairman at Washington of the farmers' organization's legislative committee during the discussion and adoption of such laws as the farm loan bank, parcel post, Smith-Lever bill. He is a practical southern farmer of many years' experience and his address is said to be unusually good. Admission to his meetings are free.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER STILL RISING; HELP OFFERED TO STATE

(International News Service)

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 20.—With the Mississippi river higher here than ever before, the huge stream continues to rise. The gauge was 54.2, a rise of two-tenths in 24 hours. Slightly over 55 feet here is predicted. The highest previous stage was 53.9 in 1916.

Despite the strain incident to holding back the great volume of water, all the levees are still reported in good shape. The Y. and M. V. railroad is having a strenuous time keeping the water out of its passenger station here.

Wood paving in the streets has become dislodged. Cellars of many warehouses are under water. Trains north of Vicksburg are running through a stretch of water for 25 miles and all trains are late and must proceed cautiously.

A thousand men have been added to the United States engineer's force of 2,000 and with good weather in progress, speed is being made in repairing and strengthening the bulwarks.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The government today went to the aid of flood sufferers along the Mississippi river. Colonel Robert A. Brown, in command of the seventh corps area, was ordered by the war department to place supplies and troops at the disposal of Governor McRae, of Arkansas, in extending relief to refugees.

Assistance had been requested immediately by the governor.

Open Gas Jet Fatal To Three

(International News Service.)

HOUSTON, Texas, April 20.—Three children, huddled together in their beds, were found dead in their homes this morning. Gas fumes filled the room, escaping from a kitchen stove. Neither the father nor grandfather could account for the open gas jet of the stove which had poured gas into the room during the night.

CHILDREN AND TROOPS BURIED IN THE RUINS

LONDON, April 20.—Thousands of persons were reported to have been blown to pieces in a munition explosion in Salonika, according to a dispatch received here today.

Hundreds of children were reported to have been buried in the ruins of a church which was destroyed. It is believed that 1800 soldiers were buried in the ruins of their barracks.

Fire immediately broke out among the ruins and inhabitants of the stricken area fled in terror. The soldiers were at their mid-day meal in the barracks when the explosion occurred. The explosion occurred in an ammunition dump 200 metres from the Salonika railway station.

"One shell exploded on top of a church, believed to be the one in which the children were buried. Reports say the casualties were mostly Greeks.

Salonika is a Greek city of about 100,000 inhabitants, most Jews and Mohammedans. It is an important seaport.

POWER COMPANY'S OFFER FAVORED BY BOSTON FINANCIER

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A future hydro-electric development of 1,000,000 horsepower would be made possible in Alabama through completion of the Muscle Shoals project, it was declared today by Francis B. Frothingham, Boston financier, testifying before the senate agriculture committee.

Frothingham advocated acceptance by the government of the Alabama Power company's offer because he said it would give the public full control of the greatest waterpower possibility in the country.

Frothingham opposed acceptance of Henry Ford's offer because he said it would create a monopoly against the public.

"The best interests of the public will be served by putting Muscle Shoals into the hands of an agency controlled by the public. The Alabama Power company is such an agency, as it is created under state laws and is controlled not only by the state, but by the federal waterpower commission.

"If Ford develops the project, it would greatly injure the public because instead of retaining a monopoly control, the government would place it in the hands of a private owner, which would constitute a monopoly control over hydroelectric development that would be beyond the reach of government regulation," he said.

JAMES EUBANKS DIES OF INJURY

James Eubanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Eubanks, of Albany, died today in a hospital in Winchester, Ky., following injuries received several days ago in a fall from a moving train, according to word received here this afternoon by relatives.

Mr. Eubanks went to Winchester several days ago to be at the bedside of his son, leaving here upon receipt of advice that James had been hurt. The deceased was about 17 years of age and had been a student of the Albany high school, where he was a member of the football team. He had an unusually large number of friends both among his school acquaintances and among the business people. He was employed for some time at the Albany Drug company and won an enviable place in the affection of the public with whom he came in contact.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

RUSSIANS REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE WAR DEBTS OF THE CZAR

(International News Service)

GENOA, April 20.—Russia refuses to recognize the debt contracted by the Czarist government during the war and later by the Kerensky government.

In their answer to the allied demand, made public here the envoys of soviet Russia asserted they cannot meet all of the conditions laid down for them. Russia is willing, however, the answer said, to recognize debts contracted before the war. In order to liquidate these, they plan to float a bond issue, subscribed to by "the man in the street."

The Russian note estimates the total Russian debt, including pre-war loans, war-time loans and private claims, at between 18,000,000 and 20,000,000 gold rubles.

Regarding restitution the note says that the soviet government will restore everything possible to former owners, but that it cannot hand back property that already is in the possession of Russian workers.

The announcement had the effect of another bombshell in the allied camp. Just a few minutes before the Russian answer was made public, Premier Lloyd George had received correspondents.

"I am not going to anticipate the character of the soviet's reply, but I will be very much surprised if it is not of such a character that we can successfully proceed with the conference," the British statesman said.

PARIS, April 20.—"If we can't keep the Germans from uniting with the Russians, at least we can force Germany to respect the treaty of Versailles," Premier Poincare declared today, according to the Echo de Paris.

"Not at Genoa will we settle this account. We have means to enforce the sanction to bring Germany to order. We demand that the allies, principally Great Britain, join us in obliging Germany to make honorable amends—not verbal, but practical."

Pastor Wilks To Have Busy Summer

Dr. W. P. Wilks, pastor of the Central Baptist church, has a busy speaking program ahead of him. He will preach the commencement sermon for the Seventh district agricultural school at Blountsville, Sunday, April 30, and for the Lauderdale County high school at Rogersville on Sunday, May 14. He will deliver the annual address at the commencement program of the Tusculum city schools on Tuesday, May 23. He will conduct revival services at Hopewell Baptist church, Cullman county, beginning July 23; at Moulton Baptist church, August 2; and at Mt. Nebo Baptist church, Morgan County, August 20.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

WILSON'S LETTER CONCERNING SENATOR REED SIGNIFICANT.

Of real significance is the letter sent the Globe-Democrat, of St. Louis, by Woodrow Wilson in which he not only denies he will support Senator Reed, of Missouri, for re-election, but adds at some length his general opinion of Mr. Reed, saying among other things that Reed was incapable of "sustained friendship."

According to the letter of Mr. Wilson, a man named Merriweather, evidently a supporter of Senator Reed, made a public statement claiming that Woodrow Wilson had written a letter thanking Reed for his valuable services in helping to enact into law the federal reserve banking bill. Wilson says that he has no recollection of writing such a letter, but that on the other hand he does have a very distinct recollection of Reed interposing many and various objections to the provisions of the bill in question.

And Mr. Wilson goes on to say that Reed seemed so hostile to the federal reserve bill that he (Wilson) remonstrated with Reed about the time the bill was passed, and that among other things he recalls telling Reed, apropos of his inconsistencies, that the Missouri senator reminded him of the hero in a story he had read, where after his rejection by the heroine, the hero "mounted several different horses and rode off in several different directions." Mr. Wilson concluded his open letter with a severe arraignment of Reed and his record and declared that not with his consent will Reed receive another election to the senate.

It is significant that Mr. Wilson is being connected with the aspirations of politicians as it shows that the former President is regarded even by such men as Reed as having a great deal of influence. Mr. Reed doubtless believes that the Wilsonian politics are good enough to help get him into office once more at least, and that the name of Woodrow Wilson was one to conjure with among the voters of the "Show-Me-State." Those who take the trouble to look up the anti-Reed letter will find it reads as coming from the mind and heart of Woodrow Wilson himself. It has the same ring as the letter he sent a certain non-American named Murphy about the time this nation was entering the war on the side of the allies, and it has the same vigorous punch in it as Mr. Wilson used when he denounced certain "wifful senators" who were also described as representing no body else's opinion but their own, where they voted against the war.

COMMENDATION FOR SHRINERS EFFORTS FOR CLEAN RECREATION.

Commendation has come from many sources to the Shriners for bringing, from time to time, clean and wholesome amusements to the Twin Cities. The circus of yesterday and last night came here under the auspices of the Shriners, and the brand of entertainment furnished was in keeping with other enterprises sponsored by the Shriners. Another commendable feature of such effort on the part of the Shriners is that the proceeds go into charitable service to those who stand in need. Because the share of the Shriners in the proceeds from the circus goes to charitable purposes, no complimentary tickets were issued. But as a special consideration to them, the carrier boys of The Daily were all given free access to the many delights of the big show.

THE ALABAMA POWER COMPANY VIEWPOINT.

Judging from what Hugh W. Roberts, the well known Washington correspondent, says, if Ford will give up the Gorgas steam plant, eliminate the plant from his bid for Muscle Shoals; if he will agree in writing to "produce a finished fertilizer in commercial quantities during the lease for 150 years, whether at profit or loss; if he will agree to bear the cost of the burden of lands overflowed by construction of Dam No. 3; if Ford will increase from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 his offer for the nitrate plants, the quarry at Waco, and the other valuable property which his offer comprehends," omitting of course the Gorgas steam plant, the committee will really make a favorable report on the Ford offer.

Then Mr. Roberts expresses doubt as to whether Mr. Ford will yield to the demands of the committee. "Will Ford continue to yield?" he asks. If he does not, we are assured by Mr. Roberts, at least half of the membership of the committee would not be reduced to tears, all of which has a long time been suspected.

But the correspondent discreetly makes a confession, and it is one that confirms the opinion so long expressed by Judge Tyson, the congressman from the second district of Alabama, that if Ford's proposal was accepted it would be due to pressure on congressmen from back home.

After telling us that the Ford bid would be the only one reported back to the house, he says: "It is the general understanding the committee would reject it without further ado, but pressure in this election year is exerted in behalf of the Ford offer, and the committee will yield to pressure."

The Journal has several times suggested committees be sent to Washington in behalf of Ford, and in response to this suggestion there has been started a movement for organizing Ford clubs everywhere in the counties and the state and in other states and other sections. It is a wise, practical movement, and one that should be pushed to a conclusion. The importance of bringing pressure on congress is made clear by Mr. Roberts. If anything was wanting to convince Ford's friends of this Mr. Roberts' statement should remove all doubt.

Of course Mr. Roberts did not disclose some inside facts as to the alleged trend of mind of the committee to put Ford's friends to work and where they could accomplish most and more certainly achieve their ends.

We tip our hat to Mr. Roberts who appears to be giving good publicity to the Alabama Power company at the federal capital. He rather recklessly and perhaps without due consideration of the consequences gives us the Alabama Power company viewpoint.

But there is another viewpoint. But it comes from a different news source. It gives Ford's friends hope, if not absolute confidence in the ultimate result.—Montgomery Journal.

WHAT PROHIBITION MEANS TO THE SOUTH.

For an example of what prohibition means economically to a country, the delegates to the international economic conference in session at Genoa are referred to the southern states. This suggestion comes from the bulletin issued by the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Regarding the advance made in the South since prohibition became effective, the bulletin says, in part:

"It is safe to say that the general adoption of prohibition in the southern states advanced the development of that section by at least ten years."

"It is stated that southern legislatures have in some instances made state college appropriations for the next year or two larger than the total sums previously appropriated since the beginning of their respective state colleges and universities. There has been a great advance in Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi and sister states. The number of students at the University of Kentucky increased from 719 in 1917 to 1,453 in 1921. The number in the North Carolina University increased from 500 in 1905 to 1,500 in 1920, and within a few more years indications are it will have three thousand. Georgia Tech is expanding now to proportions which will provide engineering, scientific and industrial courses for five thousand men."

"The greatest value of prohibition is that it provides capital. Wherever it has been tried it has been the principal factor in affording native capital for the development of native resources, which in turn provides employment for labor, and increases population, increases wages, raises the standard of living, makes life larger and healthier for the whole people."

And no section appreciates prohibition, perhaps, better than the South.—Gadsden Journal.

JOHN McCORMICK.

The musical world, hardly recovered from the shock of Caruso's death, has been subjected to another in the critical illness of John McCormick. It is a relief to know that the crisis has passed, but there will be anxiety until it is known that he is quite out of danger. Fortunately his physicians are able to say that the septic sore throat which apparently originated in infected tonsils has not affected the larynx, so that the beauty of his voice will not be impaired in the least, but at best it will be months before he can sing again.

His case will be likely to cause a vigorous discussion of the question of removing tonsils. Mr. McCormick's refusal to permit this operation can easily be understood; Nature gave him a voice of a million, and to tamper with it by throat surgery was taking a chance of marring a perfect instrument. The fact that he has almost never had to cancel an engagement indicates, too, that his throat must be normally healthy. On the other hand those surgeons who see in the tonsils only a trap for malignant germs will point to his case as a confirmation of their view. It is a hard question to decide, and doubly hard in the case of singers, though improved surgical methods are greatly reducing the risk of injury from the operation.

Of the singers of our time John McCormick stands next to Casuso in popularity, though his greatest success has been won not in opera but on the concert platform. Indeed the popularity of his recitals and his admirable singing of popular songs have tended to obscure the fact that he is one of the most artistic of singers; in the fineness of his lyric style and the perfection of his vocal technique he has few equals. He gives the public what it wants but he also insists on giving what it ought to have, and his influence for good in the musical world can hardly be exaggerated.—Springfield Republican.

A PIONEER OF BASEBALL.

"Pop" Anson is dead. To the younger generation of baseball fans the name does not carry much significance, yet Anson was one of the leaders in baseball who transformed the old corner lot game of rounders into professional baseball of today, with its huge financial income and its intense public enthusiasm.

Anson's playing days range from 1869 to 1897. He was a playing manager who won many pennants for Chicago in the eighties. He was managing semi-professional teams as late as 1909 and 1910. Anson was a friend, equal and associate of the men who helped to develop baseball into a great business organization—such men as Spalding, Comiskey, King Kelley and others.

There was a time when the name "Pop" Anson counted for as much in baseball as the name of Babe Ruth counts today. The American public always admires the slugging type of player and Anson was that. He was the premier home run hitter of his day in his prime. He led the league in hitting for six years and for 22 years was always among the three best hitters. Even when he was grown old and heavy he could plant his feet firmly and drive the ball out of the lot. A. G. Spalding once picked a mythical All American nine which in his opinion was made up of the best ball players of all times. He named "Pop" Anson as the greatest first baseman in the history of the game.

The old man lacked two days of being 70 years of age when he died. Thousands of people including health officers, paid tribute to the old athlete in his home city of Chicago, where he was not forgotten.—Montgomery Advertiser.

OFFICIALS BUSY IN POLL TAX CASES

The probate judge's office is daily engaged in attending to those who for various reasons have been left off the poll list of the county. In many instances they are enabled to arrive at the proper conclusions aided by the taxpayer and the name is restored and will appear on the supplement list which will be published about May 1.

In many instances the would-be voter has neglected the opportunity to qualify, and must wait another year before the proper qualifications can be met and the name restored. Some are considerably surprised when they find that their name is omitted; the reason not being an error of the office, but was made by them, they neglecting to comply with the rules and regulations governing such matters. Some make the mistake of computing their age; others have failed to register properly, and still others have failed to connect and the matter of registering with the present residence. In almost every instance the authorities are able to convince the ones who are in search of information as to the exact status of their case.

Funding of Debt Will Be Delayed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Funding of the $11,000,000,000 debt probably will be delayed by the failure of Great Britain to enter negotiations as soon as this government expected. England's attitude of waiting will have the effect of retarding conversations with other European debtors.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Linton Tells How Helpful
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound is at This Period

Denver, Colorado.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for seven years and I cannot tell you the good it has done me. It is good for young and old and I always keep a bottle of it in the house; for I am at that time of life when it calls for Lydia E. Pinkham's help. My husband saw your ad. in the papers and said 'You have taken everything you can think of, now I want you to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' So I let him get it, and I soon felt better and he told me 'I want you to take about six bottles.' So I did and I keep house and do all my own work and work out by the day and feel fine now. I tell every one about the Vegetable Compound, for so many of my friends thought I would not get well."—Mrs. R. J. LINTON, 1880 West 33d Avenue, Denver, Colorado.

After reading letters like the above, and we are constantly publishing them, why should any woman hesitate to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she is in need of help? It brings relief where other medicines fail.

Circus People Are Real Folks

If you can't sing, make a noise anyway. There has been too much laughing. It must be cut out. That's all, but a direct command, the only one, but it was obeyed. There wasn't another sound in the tent when he was speaking. Circus people long since have learned the lesson of discipline.

Instantly thereafter Berry became again the genial fellow. Not lacking in understanding of the problems of his fellow performers. Mixing with them, but leading them—the test of a real leader. Human, yes—listen. Fifteen minutes before the performance was scheduled to start, he called to his wife in the women's dressing tent and requested his razor which had been placed in her property trunk. She met him in the "pad room" with the razor—and he emerged at performance time the well groomed manager of all the "back stage" area. How many husbands, outside the circus world, demand of their wives knowledge the whereabouts of the razor, of the elusive comb and brush, or the missing suit of clothes, or the socks they can't find, or the collar button which is showing a sudden shyness or of the hundred and one other things that masculine hands seem never to be able to locate without the aid of a feminine helper.

They never told me of the gay comradery of the dressing room tent, of the give and take of mutual helpfulness of the artists. They never even told me that class distinction is found behind the canvas side walls of a circus tent, just as the same distinctions are found in other walks of life. Members of the hostlers' gangs do not penetrate behind the flap of the performer's dressing tent, but I never knew it before.

The press-agents have clothed the private lives of the circus performers with a veil of secrecy. They have advertised artistic temperament to the detriment of humane existence, they have put forth the artist, but have said nothing of the man.

We all are prone to look with suspicion on the things we do not understand. How are we to know these gentle, orderly, respectful folks unless we know them better. How are we to know that profanity is barred in the dressing tent, that the dividing wall between the two sections is treated with the same respect the public accords the curtains in a Pullman berth.

Isn't it time that the press-agents forget some of the mighty mechanical success of the circus and remembered Signor Avegoten, the "marvelous, breath taking, death defying" artist of this or that ring, in real life is James Smith, or John Brown, or Bill Jones of Oskosh or Pittsburgh or Salt Lake City; that he is just as human, governed by the same emotions that largely control you and I? Isn't it?

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 20—A return of clear weather in the South weakened the cotton market at the start today, first prices showing losses of one to five points. Local traders and Japanese interests sold, but there was some buying by Wall Street and New Orleans which sustained the list after the opening.

FOUR SCHOOLS TO BE ERECTED SOON

Prof. E. L. Hays, of Hartselle, superintendent of education of the county, who is in the Twin Cities today, said bonds have been sold in four school districts in the county with a view of building two new school buildings and repairing and extending two others. The bonds thus voted were sold a few days ago to Messrs. Caldwell and Garber, of Birmingham. The money will be available immediately. With these funds on hand, a new brick structure will be erected at Flint, and another at Danyille. It is understood that these buildings will contain from seven to nine class rooms. The Austinville and Moulton Heights schools will also benefit by the bond sale, and the schools at these two places will be enlarged. The amount realized by the bond sale is near $30,000.

The Way "Smith" Came Back Into Madge's Life.

I was but for a second that I stood erect. In the position to which I involuntarily had sprung when I heard the voices of the horsemen coming down the lonely wood lane.

Then, still obeying the instinctive impulse of concealment which had seized me at the sound of the second voice, I swiftly moved to the tree against which Dicky's car rested, seated myself there in such a manner that the machine almost concealed my presence, and, adjusted my hat so that its brim drooped over my forehead. I thanked my little loss that my hat had a brim, and—that it was not the hat I had worn in the Catskills. With some autumn branches in my hand I made a pretense of stripping the leaves from them, but had to stop all movement and grip the branches tightly to still the trembling of my hands.

"Remember, Anton—"

For, if my ears and my memory had not deceived me, the somewhat servile voice of the second approaching horseman was that of the man Smith, whom I had last seen in the Catskill mountains, and who was now a fugitive from the justice which he had so mysteriously escaped that memorable night when our fishing party had discovered the wounded trooper in the reservoir grounds. If it were he, I knew that the servility was only assumed, that the arrogance of the man was only concealed, his cunning working swiftly and surely.

And then the two men on horseback moved into my view from the recesses of the forest path, and from underneath my hat brim I looked furtively at them.

The first man I knew, in the casual, friendly fashion of the countryside, as the "big man" of the neighborhood, a retired farmer, wealthy, public-spirited, respected and liked by his neighbors. That he could know anything of the real personality of Smith—if the second man really were Smith—was, of course, unthinkable. And that the relation between them was that of kindly efficient master and new servant, I gleaned from the elder man's words as they rode toward me.

"Remember, Anton, the one thing above all others which I will not have is brutality to animals," he was saying. "I discharged the man just before you for that."

"I will remember," Anton said slowly, and then his eyes fell on Dicky's car, and I saw him start unmistakably. I wondered if, with the keen perceptions which I guessed to be his, he had recognized the car, having remembered seeing it upon that night which had seen his exposure.

A Swift Decision.

For I had convinced myself now that beyond all doubt the man, Anton, evidently a new man-of-all-work of my neighbor, Mr. Briggs, was the same man, Smith, who had been the opulent autocrat of the Catskill mountain region in which he had his barbed estate. And yet, barring their height, which the man, Anton, made less by appearing slightly stooped, there was little outward similarity between the two.

Smith had been a commanding figure, erect and broad-shouldered, with a well-defined appearance. This man was thin, almost to emaciation, and his clothing hung loosely on him. Smith's appearance had been that of a scrupulously fastidious man, accustomed to luxurious bathing apertences, who would almost have died rather than appear unshaven, a man with many changes of clothing.

"Anton" had at least a three-day's growth of beard upon his face, his clothing was grimy and hung loosely on him, and his hands were distinctly suggestive of the earth. Around his forehead he wore a dirty bandage, which, I noted with rising excitement, completely concealed his eyebrows. I gave him another furtive but searching glance, and decided that the dirt upon his clothing and the bandage were but surface soil, that the cloth next his head was clean, and that underneath the rough garments were others, clean and fine. He was altogether too typical—he outdid his compatriots whom I had seen working in the neighboring fields. Mr. Briggs had reined in his horse when he saw the car, and "Anton" followed his example. For a second or two they did not see me, then Mr. Briggs espied me and swept off his hat with a courteous bow.

"How do you do, Mrs. Graham?" he said heartily, adding solicitously. "I hope there is nothing wrong with your car."

I explained, conscious as I did so, that "Anton's" eyes were furtively searching my face. But I did not look toward him. I had swiftly decided that though no doubt he had recognized me, I must give him no inkling that I had any suspicion of his identity.

KILBY WILL CONFER WITH HENRY FORD

(Montgomery Bureau,
Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 20—Governor Kilby today declined to discuss reports in Washington, Birmingham and Montgomery that he would go to Detroit during the week for a conference with Henry Ford regarding Muscle Shoals. The governor said he had nothing whatever to say in reference to the reports and he preferred that he not be asked to make a statement.

He did not deny or confirm the statement that he would go to the home of the Muscle Shoals bidders. However, he did state that no definite day had been set for any conference. He expressed the opinion that it would not be in the interest of the public for any announcement to be made regarding any late developments in the matter.

Governor Kilby many times recently has expressed to callers the hope that an understanding may be reached without delay which will result in the acquisition of the Muscle Shoals development by Mr. Ford. He held a conference in Birmingham last week with E. G. Liebold, secretary of Mr. Ford, and if he does go to Detroit for the conference the meeting with Mr. Ford will result from the Birmingham conference.

Albany To Send Team To Meeting

Albany high school will send a picked team to Birmingham-Southern soon to attend an interscholastic athletic and literary meeting.

Although athletics are a strong point, Albany high has another strong trump to play, as Miss Carpenter is preparing to do some winning in the literary field.

Miss Jessie Mae Miller has been chosen to represent the school in the girls' declamation, while Martin Briscoe will deliver his "Spartan" oration. There will be a debating team to go, the debaters have not been chosen yet but Miss Marie Popenburg and Martin Briscoe are the most forceful speakers, and have an edge on the others by being on the most popular side.

Election Contest Is Before Court

(Montgomery Bureau,
Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 20.—The contest brought by Thomas E. Street against the four associate commissioners of Birmingham—W. B. Cloe, William L. Harrison, W. E. Dickson and Mrs. Mary Echols—was submitted to the supreme court on appeal from the Jefferson circuit court Wednesday. Street lost the case in the Jefferson court and appealed to the supreme court for a reversal of the trial court.

Supreme court decision on Morgan county cases today was: A. S. Good vs. Frank S. Harris; affirmed.

PRISONERS INCREASE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 20.—(Special.)—Alabama's penitentiary will receive almost two times as many prisoners as it received last year if the record already established during the fiscal year is continued. Records of the state convict department show that during the present year 799 prisoners have been received compared with 1,106 during all of last year.

FIRE TODAY

A fire alarm at 1:25 o'clock today called the Albany fire department to 611 1-2 Second avenue to the building owned by Dr. L. A. Neill and occupied by T. O. Ratliff. The cause was a stove fire stopped up; no damage. Considerable excitement was eminent when the firemen arrived.

Beautiful Ruins of Melrose.

Melrose, a pleasant little village in England at the foot of the Eldon hills, is famous for the ruins of the Cistercian abbey, founded by King David I in 1138, destroyed during the Wars of the Successions, and then rebuilt, being completed in the 14th century. The ruins indicate it was a noble structure with wonderful tracery and carvings.

MONTGOMERY AIDS THE FARM BUREAU

Secretary-Manager Roy C. Bishop, of the farm bureau, announces that arrangements had been made with the transportation bureau of the Montgomery chamber of commerce to handle all transportation problems for its members, it was stated here today by members of the Morgan county bureau.

The arrangement entitles the farm bureau members to all rights and privileges of the transportation bureau, effectively immediately. The transportation and related problems including securing rates on farm products, fertilizer, lime, etc., the securing of better minimum car lot weights, careful checking of all freight bills, and the handling of loss, damages and overcharge claims with the railroad and express companies.

In addition the transportation bureau will furnish the farmers, through the county and state farm bureaus, routing instructions, information about packing requirements, and take care of their general railroad matters. This is a most important step by members of this organization and is expected to be of especial help just at this season when spring shipments of farm products and truck will soon begin.

LOCAL YOUTH PINS CHAMP'S SHOULDERS

Immediately following the program in the main tent of the Gollmar B. V. circus, which played here Wednesday it was announced by the management that a professional wrestler who traveled with the aggregation would take on all comers, paying the a $2.00 for each minute up to 10 minutes of time engaged in a wrestling bout. His proposition was accepted by two thus included Joe Costello, of Florence, and a local boy, Audrey Watkins. The Florence man was able to hold the champ for the full 10 minutes. After a few minutes of rest the local boy, Watkins, was taken on and demonstrated that he had the goods also, holding the champion intensely interested for the full 10 minutes. The same team engaged in a bout after the night's performance. At this time the Florence man's shoulders were put to the mat in six minutes. Watkins was taken on and succeeded in pinning the shoulders of the champion to the mat in eight minutes. Watkins is an employee of the Louisville and Nashville shops and works in the boiler shop. He received his training while in the navy in the art of wrestling, and has made it a point to take advantage of every opportunity offered to take on the big ones which come this way.

"WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ME?"

Thousands Who Ask That Question Will Be Interested In This Answer

Human flesh is heir to many ailments, but aside from the acute and the contagious diseases, most people become sickly from neglect. They have indigestion and do nothing for it. They get nervous and often sleep poorly and do nothing to cure themselves. From these and other causes they gradually lose strength and vitality and feel tired much of the time and often "blue" and despondent. If you feel below par take Gude's Pepto-Mangan and let it restore your strength and vitality and overcome that weakness by building up your blood to the right richness and redness. Then you will feel fine and vigorous again, and have plenty of "pep." For thirty years Gude's Pepto-Mangan has been the doctor's favorite tonic for rundown people. Sold in both liquid and tablet form by all druggists. Advertisement.

RATE CASE SET

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 20—(Special)—The city of Anniston filed with the public service commission today a petition which would require the Alabama Water company to re-establish water rates in Anniston in line with those prescribed in a contract between the city and the company which preceded the Alabama Water company. If granted the petition would cause material reductions in the water rates.

Turned From Sea to Stage.

That Douglas Jerrold, the great English dramatist, satirist, and one of the greatest of English wit, started life as a sailor, was evidenced in his bearing even late in life. Jerrold's father was the manager of a theater, but it was the sea that first lured the boy. Yet it is interesting that when Jerrold was only fifteen years old he wrote a comedy which later was produced and started him on his stage career, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

of which he is chairman, Rev. Caldwell's address, gave a bright and inspiring vision of what a country pastor may be expected to accomplish. He said the local pastor should know his field, the lives and needs of his people, and should set up high standards.

Closing Session Came Last Night

The final session of the Presbytery, opened with devotional exercises led by the Moderator, Rev. T. R. Husk, Rev. J. P. Cotton read a scripture lesson from the second psalm and following a hymn, Rev. Henry Copeland preached an excellent sermon from the subject "God's Blessings in Store." A few minutes were given at the close of the sermon, for expressions of the visitors of their appreciation to Rev. T. J. Halfacre, the host of the Presbytery for his many courtesies and kind attentions. Also the local people were given hearty thanks for their entertainers. On motion of Dr. Goodwin Rev. Robert F. Adair, was given the retired relation. Dr. Goodwin also delivered a message from the Woman's Presbyterian Association.

Rev. M. M. Crow then presented and passed unanimously a resolution, full of appreciative thanks to all who had helped make the Presbytery meeting a success from every standpoint. In addition to adjournment for the next regular session at Copeland, a resolution prevailed just at the close to hold an adjourned meeting of the members of the Presbytery on the 27th of June, at the Westminster Presbyterian church.

CALOMEL PURIFIED OF OBJECTIONABLE EFFECTS, AT LAST

Success Crowns Efforts of Pharmaceutical Chemists to Rid Popular Medicine of its Nauseating and Dangerous Qualities—Calotabs the New Name.

A triumph of modern pharmacy that is destined to bless the whole world, from the King on his throne to the humblest laboring man—that is the opinion of druggists who have been watching the sale of the new calomel tablet that is free from the objectionable effects of the old-style calomel.

An occasional purifying of the system and thorough cleansing of the liver are absolutely essential to the maintenance of health, and calomel is the only drug that gives permanent results. Now that the unpleasant effects are entirely removed, the popularity of the new calomel, Calotabs, will be vastly increased. One tablet on the tongue at bedtime, with a swallow of water, that's all—no taste or unpleasantness of any kind. A good night's sleep and you wake next morning feeling fine, with a clean liver and a hearty appetite. Eat what you please—no danger.

Beware of imitations! Genuine Calotabs are sold only in "checker-board" (black and white) packages bearing the copyrighted trade-mark "Calotabs". The large, family size sells for thirty-five cents; vest-pocket size, ten cents. All dealers are authorized to refund the price if you are not delighted with Calotabs.—adv.

kimo pies, and went so far as to order a case of drinks from the Coca-Cola Bottling Works, which can be gotten by the case at a great reduction. It was not long before this charming young lady became Mrs. Gene R. Walden. When looking over the Albany-Decatur Daily, Gene saw J. D. Bush's advertisement headed, "Build a Home." He immediately made the deal with this progressive lumber company for the lumber. Being told of the satisfactory work done by Hal Mullen, the plumber, he turned this job over to him. The Jackson Electric Co. adorned the home with the most beautiful fixtures and also left with them a vacuum cleaner. With this well equipped bungalow a caloric furnace was put in by the Southern

Sheet Metal Works. To have the most durable paint for this lovely bungalow, the young couple knew exactly where to go, to Sam Frank's Hardware Store, and got the loveliest brown imaginable. This house was exquisitely furnished by the Morgan Furniture Co. This young couple were of the same opinion "What is a home, without a car?" They bought one of "The Good Maxwells," from the North Alabama Auto and Accessory Co. which afforded them great pleasure and was equipped with tires from the Twin City Tire Co. The George Insurance Co. who is always on the job, immediately sent one of its agents to Gene, to write out an insurance policy. When A. C. Joiner and Son brought their first bill of groceries, which are always fresh and tempting, imagine the young bride's distress when she found the pantry locked and the key gone. She was terribly upset when Gene came home, but he told her that he was sure N. W. George could make keys to fit any lock. Gene's main occupation when at home was looking after his thoroughbred chickens, which were fed on Purina Feed, from the Morgan County Feed Store. They were wise when it came to the milk they drank, for they knew that they could get the cleanest and purest from Fennell Davis Dairy Depot. But alas—Gene made a fatal mistake, when he refused to listen to his wife, when she plead with him to buy meat from the Ideal Meat Market, but he bought elsewhere. The result was ptomaine poison. Now there is placed at poor old Gene's head a marble monument, made by the Southern Stone and Marble Co.

It should be such a pleasure, and quite fascinating to write an essay on styles and values at

ARE THE AVERAGE YIELDS OF MORGAN COUNTY PROFITABLE?

By DAVID D. LONG, Soil Specialist, Soil Improvement Committee, Atlanta, Ga.

In this time of stress when all farmers are trying to work out of a depression, it is essential that farming as a business should be looked upon from a business basis.

It is necessary to diversify, for diversification always has been a paying proposition even before the boll weevil came and especially so in relation to the production of home supplies.

Diversification, however, is not the whole solution unless the yields of the crops are profitable. It cannot be expected that a farm operator can just diversify and expect to work out of this serious situation. It requires more than that. It requires that the yields of all crops shall be sufficiently high to pay costs of production and leave a profit. Low yields are very often the cause of complaint that prices do not pay costs of production.

Cost surveys as conducted by the United States department of agriculture show that with increased yields the cost of production per bushel, or pound of a product decreases and that the profits per acre increase. It is necessary therefore to look well into your yields to determine whether or not they are profitable.

It is generally accepted that the yield of crops is the most influential factor in relation to profits secured from farming operations. It is equally well known by every farmer that a certain yield is necessary to pay cost of production. The relationship of yield to profit as determined by the United States department of agriculture for southern farmers offers a safe guide as to how the increase of yields decrease the cost of production; increase the profit per acre; and as to what yields are necessary for profit.

The records given below are taken from the farm management survey of Brooks county, Ga., as published by the United States department of agriculture. The agriculture of this county has the reputation of being well diversified. The records were made in 1914 and in as much as conditions of 1922 are much the same as in 1914 the information as to profits offers a fair approximation of what yields are necessary for profit under present conditions.

Profits in this survey are net profits as all items, such as interest, land rent, labor, seed, fertilizer, etc., are included in the production costs.

Cotton

From this survey it was found that a yield under 200 pounds of lint cotton cost 11.6 cents a pound and gave a loss of $1.63 per acre; from 200 to 300 pounds lint the cost was 9.1 cents a pound and the profit per acre $5.29; from 300 to 400 pounds lint the cost was 7.8 cents a pound and the profit $7.96 per acre; for 400 pounds and over the cost decreased to 7.5 cents a pound, while the profit per acre increased to $18.19. The average costs per acre for all farms was $34.51. The census returns of 1920 show that the average yield of Morgan county, Alabama, was 225 pounds of lint.

Corn

The same government investigation shows that the cost of producing corn was as follows: Yield 9.3 bushels per acre, cost $1.26 per bushel, $4.66 loss; 13.4 bushels per acre cost 85 cents per bushel, $1.16 loss; 17.8 bushels per acre cost 73 cents per bushel, profit 15 cents; 24.2 bushels per acre cost 66 cents per bushel, $2.54 profit; average 14.3 bushels per acre cost 89 cents with an average loss of $1.31.

Quoting from the above publication "The data presented also indicate that under conditions found, with corn at an average price of 75c per bushel, it is necessary to secure a yield above 10 bushels per acre of corn planted in rows alternating with peanuts or about 18 bushels of corn planted "solid" if a profit is to be shown when figured by cost determination methods."

The average yield of corn for Morgan county 1919 was 15.8 bushels according to the census of 1920. A comparison with the above figures re-

GOOD SOAP FOR LESS THAN TWO CENTS A POUND

Make It At Home By This Easy Process—Takes Less Than 30 Minutes.

Nowadays, more and more women are doing as their mothers did and are making their own soap. If you have never tried it, you will be surprised to see how easy it is to make good soap, soft soap, hard soap or floating soap, just by using kitchen scraps and waste grease together with a can of Merry War Lye, the safe and sure soapmaker.

In the old days when soap was made by the boiling process it took nearly all day to make a kettle of soap. Now it is hardly any work at all—requires no boiling—takes less than 30 minutes. Saves you money and gives you all the pure, clean soap you need for kitchen, laundry and all household purposes.
